

POLITECHNIKA POZNAŃSKA

WYDZIAŁ INFORMATYKI I TELEKOMUNIKACJI

Instytut Radiokomunikacji

ul. Polanka 3, 60-965 Poznań, tel. +48 61 665 3930, fax +48 61 6

e-mail: office_cr@put.poznan.pl, www.radiokomunikacja.edu.pl

6th MC and Technical Meeting
Poznan, Poland
September 11th-14th 2023

INTERACT  cost
EUROPEAN COOPERATION IN SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY

Funded by the European Union

POLITECHNIKA POZNAŃSKA

WYDZIAŁ INFORMATYKI I TELEKOMUNIKACJI

Instytut Radiokomunikacji

ul. Polanka 3, 60-965 Poznań, tel. +48 61 665 3930, fax +48 61 6

e-mail: office_cr@put.poznan.pl, www.radiokomunikacja.edu.pl

Venue

Poznan University of Technology, Lecture Centre

Piotrowo 2 Str., 60-965 Poznan

GPS: 52.403526547758894 N, 16.94990269679347 E

How to get to Poznan

By plane

You can arrive at Poznan International Henryk Wieniawski Airport Lawica by regular flights from Warsaw, Frankfurt (Main), Munich, Amsterdam, Copenhagen and other cities operated by cheap lines. Timetables and other details are available from:

Poznan International Henryk Wieniawski Airport Lawica web site:

<http://www.airport-poznan.com.pl/en/>

By train

Poznan can also be reached by train. There are regular train connections between Poznań Main Train Station Poznan (Poznan Główny) and Berlin, Warsaw, and all major Polish cities. It takes approximately 3 hours to get to Poznan by the EuroCity international trains from Berlin or from Warsaw.

Timetables, available connections, and other details can be found on:

Polish State Railways PKP web page: <http://rozklad-pkp.pl/en>

Taxis

Taxi services from the airport and from the train station are available to take guests to their accommodation. Prices you should expect to pay are: 40-60 PLN (from the airport, ca. 10-15 €) or 25 PLN (from the train station, ca. 6 €).

Travel from Airport to Lecture Centre takes usually 30 minutes (depends on travel conditions).

Please remember that the taxi-drives accept the payment only in PLN (“złoty”), the payment in Euro is usually not possible. You can exchange the money on the airport (with “airport exchange rates”) or pay by card since this is pretty popular way in Poland.

Uber/Bolt

Services are available in Poznan and are a good way to travel in Poznan.

By car

Poznan can be reached by taking the A2 highway connecting Berlin and Warsaw or by taking other highways connecting Poznan with main Polish and European cities.

Public transport

Poznań has useful public transport operated by MPK (trams and buses):

<http://www.mpk.poznan.pl/?lng=en>

We recommend the web search page for tram in Poznan (also app can be downloaded)

https://play.google.com/store/apps/details?id=com.citynav.jakdojade.pl.android&hl=en_US where you can put your destination address and get up-to-date and compact connection information.

Currency

What can surprise you is the currency. The official currency in Poland is the Polish zloty (PLN): 1 zloty = 100 grosz. Bills come in 500, 200, 100, 50, 20 and 10 zloty denominations. Coins are 5, 2 and 1 zloty, and 50, 20, 10, 5, 2 and 1 grosz. Money can be exchanged in banks and money exchange offices without commission.

The currency rate, although it is floating, is roughly equal to 4.5 (1 EUR=4.5 PLN)

Poznan has a well-developed ATM network supporting Visa, MasterCard, Maestro and Cirrus cards. Cash machines of particular banks can mostly be found in their branch offices.

In most places payment can be made using credit/debit cards. This is very popular way of payment in Poland. Also Blik system is popular (where you pay with code generated in mobile bank app and accept transaction then).

Tourism

Once you are in Poznan, some tourist information and the city map can be useful. You can find an interactive map of Poznan at and the tourist information:

<http://www.poznan.pl/mim/public/turystyka/index.html?lang=en>

About City

Poznań is one of the oldest and largest cities in Poland, inhabited by over half a million people and located conveniently halfway between two European capitals - Berlin and Warsaw. International trade, business meetings and conventions play a vital role for the local economy, since Poznań from 1921 has hosted the most prominent trade fair events in the country, organized by Poznań International Fair, the largest organizer of fairs in Central-Eastern Europe.

A trip to Poznań is a chance to visit a place which is inherently linked to the very roots of Poland. It was here that Mieszko I of Poland decided to found his town, it was also probably here that he was baptized in 966 and joined the ranks of medieval European rulers. This event is considered to be the beginning of Polish statehood. This very story as well as many others related to the city can be heard at Porta Posnania, the interactive heritage interpretation center.

When visiting Poznań, the Old Market Square with its gorgeous, Renaissance city hall is a definite tourist must-see. Others include the Croissant Museum of Poznań, Lake Malta (one of the best and most picturesque professional regatta tracks in Europe), Europe's youngest imperial castle, a former brewery from the 19th century, turned into one of the best shopping centers in the world - Stary Browar (the title awarded in 2005 in the medium-sized mall category by the International Council of Shopping Centers). And lastly - a feast of flavors in local restaurants as recommended in the prestigious yellow Gault & Millau Poland culinary guide.

A city rich in culture, Poznań is home to the world-famous Poznań Nightingales - Boys' and Men's Choir of the Poznań Philharmonic conducted for many years by Stefan Stuligrosz, the country's only Polish Dance Theatre – Poznań Ballet, and the Agnieszka Duczmal's Chamber Orchestra. Music lovers flock to the city every 5 years for the Henryk Wieniawski International Violin and Violin-making Competition. The memory of the eminent Poznań composer Krzysztof Komeda lives on in this hometown. Poznań also boasts a rich and vibrant theatre scene. Alternative theatre enthusiasts regularly descend on Poznań for the annual MALTA International Theatre Festival, which has become the city's flagship event for June. The cultural programme is also enriched by other smaller festivals, which are rapidly gaining popularity, including the Animator festival, Poland's largest festival of animated films, and the Transatlantyk festival devoted to film music.

More about Poznań:

<http://www.poznan.pl/mim/public/turystyka/index.html?lang=en>

POLITECHNIKA POZNAŃSKA

WYDZIAŁ INFORMATYKI I TELEKOMUNIKACJI

Instytut Radiokomunikacji

ul. Polanka 3, 60-965 Poznań, tel. +48 61 665 3930, fax +48 61 6

e-mail: office_cr@put.poznan.pl, www.radiokomunikacja.edu.pl

See you in Poznan!